

CV OF DR. B.S. BHOOSHAN

Dr. B. Shashi Bhooshan is an architect practicing at Mysore and Bangalore for the last 4 decades. Earlier he was teaching and researching at the Institute of Development Studies University of Mysore for a decade until 1987 when he left fulltime academics to start his own practice. Yet he continued to be a Professor of Eminence at RV College of Architecture for two years, a Visiting Professor at University of Mysore and an Adjunct professor at BMS College of Architecture from 2003 until 2017. Dr. Bhooshan successfully guided researchers for Ph.D at Centre for Environmental Technology, Ahmedabad and at Manipal University, besides being associated as doctoral committees in many other institutions.

As a researcher he has published on habitat studies, development planning, housing and architecture resulting in five books on human settlement policies in Asia to his credit as an author or editor besides several research papers and monographs in national and international journals.

Shashi's architectural works are sensitive to the environment and has been innovative too. He has won several national level awards and prizes for his buildings that are widely published.

He was a consultant to UN Centre for Regional Development at Nagoya and led several Habitat Policy research projects for International Institute of Environment and Development, London while teaching at Mysore
